FATAL ACCIDENT.—A coroner's inquest was held yesterday at the Morgue, Cammateepoora, on the body of Saee, a woman, aged twenty years. The deceased was a day labourer employed on board the s. s. Malacca lading in coal, and worked in the between deck of that vessel up to 8 p. m., when the labourers knocked off work and went on shore. She was then missed, and on the muccadum of the gang returning on board and searching for her, he found her lying dead in the hold, and a male labourer lying on the timber about two yards from her. The man was alive and conscious, and was sent to hospital. The body of the deceased was then sent on shore. The verdict was—"that the death of the deceased was caused by injuries received by her having fallen into the hold of the steam-ship Malacca while taking in cargo after dark without lights."

FIRE AT NOWROJEE HILL.—A fire broke out at 6-45 p.m. in a jowlee shed, situated on Nowrojee Hill, owned by Dhondee Krishna and ten other cart-drivers, used for stabling their labour-carts and bullocks. The shed was burnt down to the ground within half an hour, owing to the inflammable nature of its materials. The alarm being raised, the Pydownee and the Byculla steam fire-engines with their manual engines at once repaired to the scene, but with the aid of the manual engines the fire was got under, and completely extinguished by 8-15 p. m. The origin of the fire is not known, and the damage is estimated at Rs. 200. The damages might have been considerably more had the fire taken place at a later hour, when the labour carts and bullocks that were out would have been located there; however, the few carts and about seven or eight bullocks that were in the shed at the time of the fire were speedily removed.

STRANGE TREATMENT OF A DYING WOMAN.

A CORONER'S inquest was held yesterday at the Morgue, Commateepoora, on the body of Suthiabama, aged seventeen years, the wife of one Pandoorung Baboojee, a fitter in the Municipal workshops. The husband, it appears, was removed to Parell after death to the Hindoo burning ground for cremation, where information was given to the police that the woman had died from violence, marks of which were found on her back. Inquires were made by the police, and it was discovered that the woman had been suffering from fever for some time previous to and after her confinement, which took place a month ago. At first Dr. Succaram Arjoon was called in, but after a few days the husband, imagining that an evil spirit had possession of his wife, obtained the services of one Purshotum Withul, a carpenter renowned for beating the devil out of people; and on the 25th instant this man beat the poor woman (then in delirium) with a bamboo switch. The patient lingered a while after, but subsequently died. Dr. Succaram Arjoon, in his evidence before the Coroner, said from his examination of the deceased he was of opinion that she could not recover; and from the evidence he had heard, he was of opinion that a few cuts with the cane produced would not cause her death and would not hasten it. Dr. Sidney Smith, the Coroner's Surgeon, who made a post-mortem examination of the body, was of opinion that the immediate cause of death was dropsy of the heart; and he was also of opinon from the evidence he had heard that the deceased was moribund when she was beaten with the cane, and that such beating did not cause her death, and further that deceased was not cognizant of the beating. The jury returned the following verdict:—"That the death of Suthiabama was caused by dropsy of the heart."

INSOLVENT DEBTORS' COURT.—Nov. 28.

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice SCOTT.)

RE PRANJEEVUN DOOLUBDAS.

The Hon'ble Mr. Budrooddin, for the insolvent, applied for an interim order. Mr. Manker, on behalf of a creditor, opposed the application.

It appeared that a writ was issued against the insolvent, and he was now detained in jail. The opposing creditor's affidavit was served upon insolvent late last night, and he had had no opportunity of replying to it. The creditor opposed on the ground that the insolvent's case was in reference to a suit in the Small Causes Court, that this was his fourth insolvency, that he traded recklessly, that he was now trading in the name of his son without the leave of the court, and thus practised a fraud upon his former creditors, and that he had concealed his books. Mr. Budrooddin said that insolvent had lodged two books with the Official Assignee, and that he had probably no more; that the other charges could not be taken into consideration now; that he twice got his discharge, but that on the third occasion his petition was dismissed. The learned counsel asked for a week's interim order.

His Lordship, without calling upon Mr. Manker to address the court, refused the application. This was the fourth insolvency, and the liabilities amounted to Rs. 45,000; and to such an insolvent his lordship could show no indulgence. He presumed that something wrong was going on.

RE DHUNJEEBHOY COWASJEE TASKAR.

Mr. Manker, for the insolvent, moved for an interim order for four months. Some of the creditors resided out of Bombay. The application was granted.

RE ISABELLA ROLE.

Mr. Dhairyavan, on behalf of the insolvent, applied for an interim order for six months on the ground that some of the creditors were residents in England. The application was granted.

RE DINANATH RAGHUNATH DHURANDAR.

Mr. Dhairyavan moved for an interim order. Insolvent had failed twice before, but on the present occasion he had incurred heavy expenses on account of his son's illness and had repaid them Rs. 571. the Marwaree creditor would lose his employment if the court's protection was refused. He had a large family and asked for an interim order. His lordship, under these special circumstances, granted an interim order.

BOMBAY.

THE FATAL FIGHT AT THE SAILORS' HOME.

THE adjourned inquest into the circumstances connected with the death of Jesse Smith, an able seaman of H. M. S. Euryalus, was resumed yesterday by the Coroner, Dr. Blaney, at the European General Hospital.

The following further evidence was recorded.

Dr. Frederick Fitzgerald Maccartie, Acting Resident Surgeon of the European General Hospital, deposed that the deceased was admitted into the hospital about 10-30 a.m. on the 25th instant. On examination a small, clean, and penetrating wound was found in the middle line about half way between the lower end of the breast-bone and the navel, but a little nearer the breast-bone. There were no marks of contusion. Next day symptoms of peritonitis developed themselves, and he died at midnight. Witness made a post-mortem examination of the body. He was of opinion that the cause of death was peritonitis, due to external violence connected with the wound. The peritonitis could have been caused by a violent kick in the abdomen. The knife in court could have produced the wound described; it would about accurately fit it. If deceased was in a state of collapse the night previously and had been brought to hospital earlier, it would have made no difference as to the result. If he rallied fairly well after he was injured, and had then been brought to hospital, his chance of recovery might have been greater.

Mr. Charles Lauder, Superintendent of the Sailors' Home, was examined. He said that on being attracted by the disturbance at the Home on Saturday evening, he found Littlewood surrounded by a crowd of sailors, and deceased lying in the passage leading to the wash-house. Littlewood was evidently frightened and asked witness to "keep by him." The deceased was twisting about as if he had cramps in his stomach. In twisting about he rolled out of the verandah on the ground outside. Witness proposed to send him to hospital, but his shipmates said there was no danger, and that they would take him upstairs; and they did so. Hurst, the gatekeeper, gave, witness the knife, and said he got it while Littlewood and the deceased were struggling. The long blade was open when witness received it. Deceased was placed in bed, and appeared to be suffering from the effects of drink. Next morning deceased was sent to hospital. Deceased seemed to be all right when he came to the Home. Littlewood was drunk when the deceased came in. At the bar of the Home men under the influence of liquor are not supplied with drink. No report had been made to witness that morning that the deceased was ill. Witness did not think Saturday night that the deceased was in any danger.

Antonio Amelia Braganza, bar-man at the Home, was also examined.

The Coroner then summed up the evidence adduced, and the jury after a short deliberation returned the following verdict unanimously:—"That the death of Jesse Smith was caused by peritonitis, the result of a kick on the abdomen inflicted on him by Ralph Littlewood, under such circumstances that the act of Ralph Littlewood, was culpable homicide not amounting to murder."

FIFTH CRIMINAL SESSIONS.—Nov. 28.

THE BANK OF BOMBAY DEFALCATIONS.

JAMSETJEE PESTONJEE MADON, lately a shroff in the Bank of Bombay, was again charged before his lordship and the same special jury with having, on the 7th August last, committed theft and criminal breach of trust in respect of Rs. 16,500. He was also charged with having, on the 8th of August, committed the same offence in respect of Rs. 16,000, by dishonestly inducing one Jamsetjee Heerajee, a clerk employed in the bank, to pay the sum on a false pretence that the money was required for the purposes of the bank. The prisoner was also charged with having on the same day committed theft and criminal breach of trust in respect of Rs. 15,500.

The Hon'ble Mr. Marriott, Advocate-General, and Mr. Lang, instructed by Messrs. Hore, Conroy, and Brown, appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. Inverarity, instructed by Messrs. Nanu and Hormusjee, conducted the defence.

Further evidence was called for the prosecution.

Dosabhoy Rustomjee Mottiwalla, in cross-examination by Mr. Inverarity said among other things. I am a shroff in the Bank of Bombay. I live in a fine large house at Dhobie Talao. The rent is Rs. 52 a month. My salary is Rs. 65 a month. I keep an establishment of two servants only.

Mr. Inverarity.—What business do you carry on besides being shroff in the bank?

Witness.—I circulate my money. I inherited money from my father. I have lent Rs. 3,000 to Nowrojee Muncherjee, a relative of mine employed in the Bank of Bombay, who deals in sovereigns. I am employed as receiving clerk in the same bank. Sometimes when my relative was absent, I used to attend to sovereign business, and used to pay moneys out of his box. It is not my duty to do any business in sovereigns on behalf of the bank. (Is shewn an exhibit.) This is not my handwriting, nor anything like my handwriting. It looks like the handwriting of Nusserwanjee, the deputy shroff. I never informed Nusserwanjee about the price of sovereigns. I don't know. I have no recollection of it. I know nothing about the 110 sovereigns mentioned in this note.

Mr. Inverarity.—Do you swear you did not pay for the 110 sovereigns out of the Bank's moneys in the prisoner's hands?

Witness.—I don't know.

Do you swear you and Nusserwanjee did not buy 110 sovereigns in partnership with the bank's monies?—Yes, I never bought in that manner. I can give no explanation regarding this document. I never saw it before to-day. I know Premchund Roychund. He comes to the bank. Who does not know him?

Did you and Nusserwanj

DEPARTURE OF THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT FROM ENGLAND.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught left London on the 2nd inst. for India, where the Duke succeeds to the command of the Meerut division in the Bengal Presidency. Long before the hour fixed for their departure, the approaches to Charing-cross Station were lined by thousands of spectators, among whom great excitement was created by a rumour which about that time was circulated that a plot to wreck the royal train with explosives had been discovered. It was said that an anonymous letter had been received giving warning of the proposed attempt; and in consequence elaborate precautions had been devised by the South-Eastern Railway officials to watch their line and secure the safety of the train. As to this rumour, it may be mentioned that an anonymous letter had been picked up, which seemed to indicate that an attempt was to be made to damage a part of the company's line near London on the morning of the 2nd. The letter itself enjoined the person who received it to destroy it; but it is deemed hardly likely that if it had been referred to an intended outrage it would have been carelessly lost in a place of public resort. By half-past seven o'clock a large number of friends of the Duke and Duchess Connaught had gathered on the platform alongside which the Royal train was drawn up. The western side of the station was entirely closed to the public, and a strong force of police stationed at the various barriers prevented the passage of unathorized persons to any of the other platforms. The royal train consisted of two saloon carriages, two first-class carriages, and two brake-vans. On the table of the principal saloon were placed handsome bouquets, presented to the Duchess of Connaught on her arrival—one of violets, by Lady Herbert, whose husband will be upon the staff of the Duke, and another of choice white flowers, by Sergeant-Major Peter Smith, on behalf of the non-commissioned officers of the 1st Battalion Scots Guards, of which regiment the Duke is colonel. A guard-of-honour of the regiment with the Queen's colours was drawn up, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Vaughan. On the opposite side of the west platforms and the full band was also in attendance. At twelve minutes to eight o'clock the Prince and Princess of Wales arrived from Marlborough House, and as they alighted the guard-of-honour presented arms and the band played the National Anthem, while the prolonged cheering which had been heard from the crowds outside was taken up and repeated by the spectators assembled on the platforms above and below the Queen. Other members of the Royal family arrived in quick succession. Prince and Princess Christian, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, and the Duke and Duchess of Albany already joined the party, and when, at five minutes to eight o'clock, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught drove up to the platform and alighted amid universal manifestations of welcome. The National Anthem was played, and a brief interval was then spent in exchanging farewell greetings. The Duchess of Connaught was presented by the Prince of Wales with a splendid bouquet. At a minute past eight the Duke and Duchess entered the saloon carriage, and the members of their suite—Lord and Lady Downe, Sir Maurice FitzGerald, and Dr. Scott—having also taken their seats, the train started, the Coyal travellers repeatedly waving from the carriage windows their acknowledgments for the hall, but a strong cheers which were raised on their departure. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught reached Dover at a quarter to ten o'clock, and were received by Major-General Newdigate and staff, and also by the Admiralty Superintendent, Captain Sir Thomas Bruce. They immediately embarked on board the special steamer Invicta, from which vessel the Duke replied to several telegrams that were awaiting him. The Duke and Duchess took their places on the bridge of the boat, and as it left the pier at five minutes to ten they came to the gangway and acknowledged the repeated cheers that were raised.

RETURN OF THE MARQUIS OF LORNE AND THE PRINCESS LOUISE.

The Allan steamer Sardinian reached the Mersey on Monday afternoon, having on board the Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne. They were met by the Duke of Albany, Sir George Kilner, Colonel Bell, the Mayor of Liverpool (Mr. W. Radcliff), and others. The voyage of the Sardinian proved a stormy one, especially on the passage from Moville on Sunday night, and the Princess suffered considerably. A large crowd at the landing-stage displayed great enthusiasm, and the distinguished visitors were cheered all the way up to the town-hall, where they received an address from the city council. The distinguished party and about thirty other guests were afterwards entertained at luncheon by the Mayor, and in the afternoon they proceeded by train to Euston, where they arrived at 8-45. Amongst those who had assembled on the platform were Colonel Macneil, V. C. (representing the Queen), Lord Walter Campbell, Sir John Rose, Colonel Sir John Carstairs, Lady Sophia Macnamara, and Mr. Harvey, private secretary to Lord Granville, who attended on behalf of his lordship. These were joined, just after the party had alighted, by the Duchess of Albany and Princess Victoria of Hanover. Some ten minutes were occupied in general conversation, and then the Duke and Duchess of Albany drove to Buckingham Palace, and were quickly followed by the Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne, who drove off to Kensington Palace amid loud cheers.

THE INDIAN AND AUSTRALIAN MAIL SERVICE.

The mercantile community are at a complete loss to understand why there should be so much chopping and changing about in the Australian mail service. It was announced some little time ago that the New South Wales Government had entered into a contract with the Orient Steam Navigation Company for a fortnightly service, which would practically give weekly communication to Australia, which is far so good. But why, shortly after that contract is concluded, should the New South Wales and New Zealand Governments make an alteration in the arrangements for the direct service via San Francisco? The Post-office issued an announcement to the effect that the next mails for those colonies by the San Francisco route, instead of being despatched on Thursday, Nov. 1, as originally intended, were to leave London on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 8, and subsequent mails will be despatched every fourth Thureday, counting from that date. Now this will practically mean that for the first three weeks in November there will be a weekly mail to Australia and New Zealand, but there will be no steamer between Nov. 16 and 30. On the latter date, however, the Orient Company will commence their new contract by despaching the fine steamer Orient, but the mails which she will carry will not be made up in London until Dec. 7, when they will be sent overland to Suez and put on board the steamer at that port. It must be confessed that the time-tables which all these companies issue are very misleading, and we are not surprised that there should be so many complaints regarding them. They require as much study as a "Bradshaw's Guide." The Peninsular and Oriental Company still persist in mixing up their Indian, China, and Australian services in a way which fogs even those who, for years past, have been accustomed to forward communications to the Colonies by the Brindisi route, while the new time-table issued by the Orient Company might have been made much clearer that it is. The mercantile community, however, are now aware that from Nov. 30 next there will be practically a weekly mail service to Australia via Brindisi. In consequence of the alteration noticed above, it so happens that every alternate Orient line mail will leave London always the day after the San Francisco mail; but as the former will deliver letters in Sydney earlier than the San Francisco mail, the letter may, for practical purposes be, in a great measure, disregarded. Merchants and others, however, will have to bear in mind that letters for New South Wales, intended for the Orient line mail following the San Francisco mail, must be marked "via Brindisi." Those who send originals of their letters via San Francisco are advised to send duplicates by the Orient mail the following day via Brindisi. The New South Wales Government may possibly have good reasons for altering the date of the mail service via San Francisco; but so far as we can see, the only result will be to injure a struggling and deserving company, who have undertaken to carry the mails without a subsidy, and benefit to no appreciable degree the Peninsular and Oriental and the Pacific Mail Companies, who both receive a good round sum for the work performed by them. —European Mail.

EXTRAORDINARY REPORTS FROM TEHERAN.

A Reuter's telegram from Teheran says :—Intelligence from Herat, dated the 16th of October, reports that a letter addressed by Muhammed Sadek Khan, the Russian agent at Herat to the Russian agent at Meshed, has been intercepted by the Governor of Herat, and that Muhammed Sadek Khan has in consequence been imprisoned pending the receipt of instructions from Cabul. A letter from Meshed, dated the 27th of October, states that the Turkomans had made a raid in the neighbourhood of Kalat-i-Nadiri, carrying off several of the inhabitants and twenty flocks of sheep. A letter from Askabad, dated the 12th of October, gives a contradiction to the statement previously made that the Russian expeditionary force had returned to that place from the Tejend River. The expedition had, however, arrived at Askabad, but from another direction. A false report had also been spread that another battalion of infantry had marched to the Tejend River. The letter adds that on the day after the return of the expedition Ameer Shah, an Afghan submitted to the Russian commander a petition addressed to the Czar, in which he declared that, fearing British influence, he had placed himself under Russian protection and was ready to serve Russia. The petition asserts that most of the inhabitants of India are enemies of England, and that fifty large towns in that country are ready to revolt whenever Russian troops arrive at Herat. This statement, says Ameer Shah, will be borne out by Afghan chiefs, like Mirza Afzul Khan and Khodadad Khan. The Afreedees, he continues, will listen to him, and will guard the frontier between Afghanistan and India. Ayoub Khan being at present favourably inclined to the English, must be kept out of Afghanistan. The Ameer Abdur Rahman might, however, be relied upon. At the end of the petition is a list of forty-one towns in India, the more important being Hyderabad in the Deccan, Jubbulpore, Patna, Benares, and Cashmere. Ameer Shah offered his services to Russia four years ago, but the Russian authorities declined them. The Russian commander gave Ameer Shah twenty-five paper roubles.

According to a letter published in the Russian Courier, the Bek of Shigdan, Mahommed Akbar Khan, is now in Samarkand. He attributes his flight to the success of intrigues against him, and says that Afghanistan is in a state of anarchy, without money, and with demoralized troops. The Ameer, he further states, is a mere plaything in the hands of the Ghilzais, and he terrorises the entire population.

RUSSIA AND BOKHARA.

A telegram from the Times correspondent at St. Petersburg, Nov. 5, states :—An account of the State entry of the Ameer of Bokhara into his capital, after a visit to his summer residence, about 34 miles from Samarcand, is furnished to the Herold by a correspondent writing on the spot. The entry was made early on the morning of October 6, and, in all absolute monarchies, Russia included, was kept a profound secret until the very last moment. Large crowds, however, had time to collect, especially outside the bazaars, among them being four of the 11 Russians living in the city, and the only German subject in the Khanate.

Foremost in the procession came several horsemen, carrying various articles belonging to the Ameer, one bearing a low chair, or stool, covered with red silk, used by the Ameer in dismounting from his horse. Then followed 20 individuals of the suite, attired in variegated gowns of silk and satin. After an interval of 10 minutes, a horrible noise heralded the approach of three men, who were singing, or rather yelling, religious songs immediately in front of the returning Prince. The Ameer, sitting on a white

The Bombay Gazette

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1883.

Admiral Sir William Hewett will leave Bombay in his flagship, the Euryalus, for Suakim on Monday. In a fortnight there will be four gunboats and the Euryalus at that rendezvous. The necessity of securing the safety of Suakim, and at the same time disquieting the Mahdi, should he meditate a movement upon Egypt, obviously dictates this concentration of naval force at the Red Sea port in question. The presence of Baker Pasha at the head of the best Egyptian armed force now existing will contribute to the same result. The Mahdi will not give his undivided attention to stirring up troubles in Egypt if he be kept on the alert by the possibility of a movement to relieve Khartoum and drive him back to El Obeid. The National Party in Egypt is by no means defunct. It shows symptoms of recovering from the stupor which followed Tel-el-Kebir. The danger of permitting the Mahdi to work upon the elements of confusion which lie scattered on all hands in the Khedive's hereditary dominions, cannot possibly be ignored. This consideration may possibly carry the British Government much further than it would have deemed possible a week ago, now that the logic of events is demonstrating the magnitude of the responsibilities which devolve upon it in consequence of its intervention in Egypt. It will never do to have the Mahdi establishing himself, either in person or by deputy, in the country which we have undertaken to deliver from anarchy. Once that fact is admitted, the despatch of an Indian contingent to Suakim is already in sight. The Government of India will no doubt be happy to supply a force, but it is to be hoped that this time the question of payment will be settled beforehand. It would be too bad that India should have to cripple her public works to find the money for expeditions required to deal with the sequelæ of a policy in the elaboration of which the Government of India had no voice or influence whatever. But if England or Egypt finds the funds, India will find the troops that may be needed to keep the Mahdi from doing further mischief.

The importance of female education in India is none the less but is indeed rather enhanced by the fact that it is so little recognised by the bulk of the community most directly concerned. In the chapter on this branch of the Education Question which Dr. Hunter contributes to the Report of the Education Commission the difficulties which have to be encountered are assigned, in part at least, to the circumstance that the East India Company did not turn its attention to the subject until many years after something had been done with the education of boys. But the indifference of the people themselves is the chief obstacle in the way. The difficulties are mainly four. Although there are signs that a demand for girls' schools is springing up slowly but surely. education as a means of earning a livelihood is not considered as of any consequence in the case of females. Again, native marriage customs and the seclusion of the zenanas are to be reckoned with. Girls' schools as compared with boys' schools do not flourish because adequate quantity and quality of teaching power are not to be had. Lastly, the present State system neglects female education, has no proper female inspecting staff, and has its text-books framed for boys, rather than for girls or for both. Besides these hindrances to female progress there are others which no legislature can remedy off-hand. There must grow up a public opinion among natives which will act as a propelling motive ; and there is always danger that in forcing on sudden reforms in native custom there may be won a momentary success indeed, just as in the case of the delicate exotics of the hot-house, but no genuine and thorough advance towards female enlightenment all round.

The evidence before the Commission has been condensed by the President with his usual lucidity. Female education is neither an unknown nor a new thing in India, though it was formerly perhaps, as elsewhere, associated with emancipation from the proprieties of life. There are Sanskrit traditions of female learning ; the Sanskrit courtezan, it is remarked, was intellectually and in point of cultivation fit to be placed with the Aspasia who enslaved a Pericles. But education was not wholly confined to such characters. Even now in the Punjab a venerable Sikh priest surrounded by male pupils eager for spiritual instruction has also his female listeners ; in Bhopal women of an advanced type have grasped the reins of Government successfully for one generation after another ; and many of the Bengal great zemindaries are superintended with excellent capacity by women, and women alone. Modern female education such as it is, and a State system thus began. Starting from missionary effort, it is to Madras that belongs the honour of initial organization. Madras started in 1841, and it was the Scottish church that found the funds. In 1854 there were 256 schools for girls ; now there are 557 girls' schools, with a muster of 35,000 pupils. Bombay, however, we know, is much ahead in respect of female education, just as it is ahead in other educational branches; and the primary credit for this must be given to the American mission. From 1851 on, great progress, great that is, speaking comparatively, was made, the Parsees and Banias of our community taking a large share of the burden on their shoulders ; and the visit of Miss Carpenter gave new vitality to the movement. Normal Schools were established ; and in 1869 there were 209 girls' schools in the Presidency ; while from 1871, when the Bombay Government put their shoulders to the wheel and their hands into the State pocket, so much has been done that now the Commission finds a number of working institutions, threefold that in 1871. Some special features are noticed in the attitude of this city towards female education ; the commercial classes are eager for its extension, the natives themselves have come forward and are coming more forward every day, with liberal donations, and something has been done towards completing an efficient staff of trained female teachers. In this Presidency one woman out of every two hundred and forty-four of the population is able to read and write. It must be confessed, however, that expenditure of only Rs. 1,79,000 yearly upon female education—these are the figures for 1882—is not a reasonably large disbursement. In Bengal female education is neglected ; in the North-West scandalously so ; for while in Bombay the ratio of females under instruction to total female population is 1 to 400, it is 1 to 976 in Bengal, and 1 to 2,169 in the North-Western Provinces. At the same time, Bengal can boast of two fine institutions, the Bethune College in Calcutta (to which for years Lord Dalhousie contributed Rs. 8,000 annually from his private purse) and the Eden School at Dacca. In the Bethune College in 1882 six pupils were burning the midnight taper in view of the degrees of the Calcutta University ; and two of these have since obtained the parchments of a Bachelor —can Bachelor be the proper term ?—of Arts. As to the respect paid by the native community to this subject, it cannot be said to be encouraging. Municipalities will not give money ; that, they imagine, is the privilege of a grant-in-aiding State, but it is a partial satisfaction on this side of India to note that " by far the largest share of Municipal and local contributions is paid in Bombay, where they amount to Rs. 51,619, or nearly—yet no large sum—to one-half of the whole sum for all India. There are other facts en evidence. There is not, for example, much likelihood that the Hindoo widow can be utilised for the purposes of teaching. The attempt in Bengal to educate the Vishnava religious preceptresses failed. There is a marked deficiency in literature readable by women ; and the text-books are bad. On the other hand may be set down the facts that a liking for needlework—there is such a thing as education through the hand and by the eye as well as through the ear—exists and is growing ; that in many places a distinct class of native zenana agencies are springing up ; and that the Parsee and Brahmo communities encourage home instruction. In point of finance the President states and comments on points like these : that the fees levied in girls' schools are small, out of all proportion to the total expenditure, and that the pupils in fact pay just one-twentieth the cost of their education; that State aid to girls' schools is insufficient; that the Indian girl will always show a desire to work hard for a prize ; and that it is even found that where pencils, trinkets, and books are not available, emulation will be stirred up through the agency of the native correlative to the bonbon box.

We now come to the recommendations They recognise the fact that the zenana must be got at, that a good female inspecting agency must be had recourse to, and that provision must be made for the gradual supersession of male by female teachers in girls' schools. As mixed schools are not thought suited to this country, they ought, it is urged, to be discontinued—that is to say, except in the case of infants ; for up to a certain age it is thought proper enough that both sexes be taught together. Still it is admitted that if girls be excluded from boys' schools they will be in several parts of the country left without any education at all. Liberal inducements moreover, are to be held out to schoolmasters' wives to become teachers. Stipendiary pupil-teacherships are proposed. Special aid may be given to girls' schools making provision for boarders : a suitable literature to be constructed ; that Municipal Boards shall have the nomination in the first instance of certificated schoolmistresses ; and that in districts where there are European and Eurasian young women required in a native school special encouragement be offered to induce them to qualify in the vernacular. If the recommendations of the Commission be carried out, a vigorous impulse will unquestionably be given to the cause of female education in India.

The Administration Report of the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay for the year 1882 and the first quarter of 1883 was issued yesterday. The total income of the fifteen months was Rs. 46,12,240 ; the expenditure during the same period amounting to Rs. 47,53,632. There was a most satisfactory increase of revenue, chiefly from consolidated rates, wheel tax, returns from property, and miscellaneous. The town duties went up Rs. 54,700 above the estimate, owing to the large imports of ghee, timber, and sugar, which may be taken as clear evidence of the growth and well-being of the town. The grant for new works amounted to Rs. 7,39,181, while close upon three lakhs were expended on the new drainage works. The liabilities of the Corporation at the end of the year are one crore and rather more than 2½ lakhs, to which must be added Rs. 13,29,000 of the Vehar debt, which will be discharged in 1899 by the operation of the sinking fund. There appears to be a steady increase in the value of assessable property. During the fifteen months there were 497 new buildings and properties brought on the books, as against 254 pulled down. There was an increase in the valuation of Rs. 8,35,733, which is attributable to the assessment of mills on a wider basis, the value of new buildings, and the correction of previous under-assessments. The new rate of assessment applied to the mills was resisted, and the question was carried before the Chief Presidency Magistrate. Ultimately two arbitrators were appointed—Mr. S. S. Bengalee by the Municipality, and Mr. J. Fleming by the Millowners' Association—and their award was of course accepted by both parties. The assessment of railway property was also the subject of arbitration during the year—Mr. C. F. Farran and Colonel J. H. White representing the Railway Company and the Municipality respectively. The result in both cases has been favourable to the Municipal treasury. The drainage works were sanctioned and commenced in 1882, and a good deal was accomplished. It is unfortunately too soon yet to boast of the result. On the whole, the Report is satisfactory and encouraging. Mr. Ollivant has shown himself an energetic and capable administrator. Dr. T. S. Weir, who acted for him during his absence on leave, has prepared and signed the Administration Report. It is but fair to award him a word of acknowledgment for the zeal and efficiency with which he has performed the arduous duties of the office. When it became necessary to deal with the cholera epidemic which created so much alarm, the measures taken under his initiative were successful in arresting the outbreak. More recently the citizens owed to his energy and good will no inconsiderable share of the success attained by the Rao Saheb V. N. Mandlik's Committee in organizing the public reception to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, which was such a brilliant and gratifying success. Dr. Weir yesterday handed over charge to Mr. Ollivant, who returned by the mail-steamer Hydaspes.

ENGLISH POLITICAL AND SOCIAL LETTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.

Expectation is fixed on the Lord Mayor's banquet this evening, chiefly on account of the confident statements made by the papers representing the aggressive section of the Cabinet, that the Ministry has already drawn up its programme for the coming session, and that Mr. Gladstone will this evening seize the opportunity of making it known to the country. These predictions have, however, no other motive than to force Mr. Gladstone's hand. The managers of the Caucus are uneasy at the prolonged reticence of the Prime Miniater, and are anxious to commit him to the advocacy of their pet scheme of Franchise first, and Redistribution afterwards. But Mr. Gladstone is too wary a bird to be caught with chaff of this kind. He knows that a Bill for the extension of the franchise will be meaningless unless it is accompanied and defined by a measure of redistribution ; and one cannot believe that he and his colleagues have agreed to embark in a desperate political venture by resolving to ask Parliament next session to pass the Pall Mall Gazette's Bill for a uniform household franchise in Great Britain and Ireland. A Bill of this kind would assuredly be thrown out by the House of Lords, even if it were not defeated by a coalition of Tories and Moderate Liberals in the House of Commons ; and the Ministry will think twice and thrice before endangering its own existence in this way. But of course Mr. Gladstone will make an interesting and important speech. He has not spoken on public affairs since the prorogation of Parliament, and this prolonged interval of silence must have been so irksome to him that he will be delighted to break it. Besides, the new Lord Mayor represents that school of political sentiment which the Prime Minister holds in intense antipathy ; and the stimulus of righteous wrath, which is so excellent an oratorical faculty, will not, therefore, be wanting to Mr. Gladstone's eloquence. There has been some talk of a popular demonstration to-day against the new Lord Mayor, but Alderman Hadley, who was passed over in the recent election, has found it necessary to write to the papers to say he hopes his friends will give Mr. Fowler a cordial reception. The truth is, he knew his friends would do so, whether he wished it or not. Some resentment may have been felt in the Court of Livery because their candidate was discarded ; but no one has any feeling of personal ill-will against the Alderman who was actually elected. Indeed, Mr. Fowler will be one of the most popular Lord Mayors that have ever filled the office of Chief Magistrate. The good sense he has displayed in giving an Imperial character to the Lord Mayor's show this year by introducing into it trophies representing the commerce and the colonies and dependencies of the United Kingdom proves his superiority to most of his predecessors, who regarded London rather as the paradise of retail traders than as the mercantile metropolis of the richest and most powerful Empire in the world. Then, again, the Lord Mayor's sharp rebuke to the people who asked him to invite the Transvaal delegates to his table has given general satisfaction. Mr. Gladstone will hardly dare to touch on this delicate ground, or one would like to hear what he has to say about the impudent demands of these Transvaal delegates, who are instructed to claim the cancelling of the convention of 1881 and the right to extend their boundaries as far as they please in native South Africa. No one desires to retain the Boers as subjects in name of the Queen whose suzerainty they have dishonoured ; nor would England care to insist on the payment of the paltry debt they owe this country. But, when they ask to be allowed to overrun all Bechuanaland, to appropriate the territories of tribes of natives till lately protected by the British Government, and to make themselves masters of the trade routes leading from Cape Colony into the interior of Africa, it is difficult to believe that our Government will sanction such an infamous surrender as this would be of English and native interests to the ambition of the Dutch Boers to become the lords of all South Africa. There is no saying, of course, to what depth of meanness Lord Derby may not be capable of descending. Sir Hercules Robinson is credited with the remark that the only tie which binds the colonies to Great Britain is one of sympathy, and that it was an odd piece of perversity to place at the Colonial Office a Minister who is probably the most unsympathetic person to be found in the whole of Great Britain. But Mr. Gladstone must be conscious of the necessity of not making a second and more shameful surrender to the Boers ; and it would be well for him if he felt himself at liberty to reassure public opinion on this subject in his speech at the Guildhall. Mr. Gladstone, however, will not be the only speaker of note at to-night's banquet. M. Waddington is to reply to the toast of "The Ambassadors," and a great opportunity is thus placed within his reach, if he chooses to avail himself of it. He might efface at once even the recollection of the disagreements that have unhappily troubled the friendly relations of England and France, if he had the moral courage to express in a few graceful words the frank regret of the French Government for Adm

A MEETING of the St. John's Ambulance Association was held yesterday at the Town Hall, under the presidency H. E. Sir James Fergusson, Bart. The president opened the meeting with a speech, dwelling on the importance and usefulness of the Association. In response to H. E. the President, Sir Frank Souter, Dr. Hojel, Dr. Hatch, Mr. H. E. Ashley, Mr. Harold R. King, and several other speakers addressed the meeting, they all dwelling more or less on the inconvenience and consequent danger caused to patients by their being removed to hospital in hack buggies and bullock carts. Mr. Harold R. King, the honfourary secretary of the Association, suggested the formation of classes in different parts of the city for the purpose of instructing ladies and gentlemen to hospital in the treatment of patients suffering from accidents, before medical help was procured. A vote of thanks to the President by Mr. R. N. Khote, and seconded by Mr. Dosabhoy Framjee concluded the proceedings.

THE trial of Jamsetjee Pestonjee Madon, a shroff of the Bank of Bombay, on charges of cheating and misappropriating the bank's moneys, which commenced on Monday last before Mr. Justice Bayley, Acting Chief Justice, and a special jury, concluded yesterday afternoon as far as the evidence was concerned. The Advocate-General having summed up the evidence called for the prosecution, Mr. Inverarity addressed the jury on behalf of the prisoner, but had not finished at the rising of the Court.

AMONG the subjects considered by the Town Council yesterday, was a letter from Mr. MacEwen, Assistant Engineer, applying for the sanction of the Council to compel the owner of a house in the Native Town to effect certain improvements as required by the Act. After some discussion, it was resolved to authorize the Municipal Commissioner to make such improvements as the Health Officer might consider absolutely necessary. It was also agreed to inform the Commissioner that whenever applications for repairs were refused on the ground that such repairs would amount to rebuilding, the reason should be stated in the notice sent to the applicants. A letter from the Acting Municipal Commissioner was read, stating that in consequence of the failure of a contractor to supply earth of the quality required by the Municipality, at the rate of Rs. 2-4 per brass, another man had been authorized to supply it at Rs. 3-8 per brass. It was elicited in the course of discussion that no agreement had been entered into with the defaulting contractor, and, therefore, it was very doubtful whether he could be compelled to make good the loss sustained by the Municipality. The Council resolved to record its disapproval of the informal way in which the tender had been originally accepted by the Acting Municipal Commissioner.

THERE was a good attendance at the special general meeting of the members of the Bombay Cotton Trade Association held yesterday afternoon, under the presidency of Mr. Marshall. The Chairman proposed, and Mr. Cassels seconded, "That Rule XVI. be cancelled, and the following substituted :—'All transactions between members of the association shall be governed by these rules, and any member making a contract antagonistic to these rules shall de facto cease to be a member of the association.'" An amendment to this resolution, viz., that rule XVI. remain as it stood in 1881, was proposed by Mr. Moore, and seconded by Mr. Fiedler, and carried by 17 votes to 10. A resolution regarding the cancellation of Rule XXVIII, and a substitution for it was carried by 13 votes to 10 ; but a third resolution substituting the word "losers" instead of "arbitrators in equal shares" in rule XXIX., was lost. The rule consequently remains unchanged. A full report of the proceedings will appear in to-morrow's issue.

THE Bank of Bombay yesterday reduced its minimum rate to 5 per cent. The rate for demand loans on the security of Government paper has been fixed at 5 per cent. per annum. Rates for other business subject to arrangement.

NOTICE has been given in the Convocation of the University of Oxford of a motion to allow Indian students to substitute a knowledge of an Eastern language—Sanskrit, Persian, or Arabic—for Greek at responsions and the First Public Examination.

A LAHORE correspondent says that His Excellency the Viceroy looks all the better for the Kashmere trip, while Lady Ripon has derived considerable benefit from the change.

ON the subject of the Duke of Connaught's service in India, the Daily News remarks :—"India is the training school of the British Army, and it cannot be doubted that the Duke of Connaught will turn his opportunity to account in perfecting the experience he acquired at 'Kassassin and Tel-el-Kebir.'"

VERY gloomy accounts of the crops in Upper Burmah have been received at Rangoon. A large influx of people into British Burmah continues. Tens of thousands have arrived during the past two months seeking employment in British territory.

A TELEGRAM from Rangoon, November 24, to a Calcutta paper says :—An unsuccessful attempt to break into the premises of the Bombay-Burma Trading Corporation at Engbouk has been followed by a successful attempt on the Corporation's premises at Poungdeh. Rs. 507 were extracted from the safe.

MR. GAYLORD'S agent in Burmah has secured a beautifully spotted white elephant of rare beauty for Barnum's show ; and is casually mentioning the fact just "for the sake of information."

THE Times' Calcutta correspondent gives some particulars of the attempt to create disaffection among the Volunteers and induce them to refuse to muster for the Viceroy's guard-of-honour, on which the St. James's Gazette remarks :—"We would not be understood to excuse the Volunteers if they showed a disposition to sulk. Whatever Lord Ripon may do or ordain, it is the duty of Englishmen in India to show that their loyalty is to the Crown, not to the person to whom for a moment authority is delegated."

THE net Indian Sea and Land Customs revenue, exclusive of the salt revenue, for the first seven months of the current financial year, amounted to Rs. 58,45,000, as against Rs. 63,51,000 during the corresponding period last year.

HIS HIGHNESS THE MAHARAJA OF VIZIANAGRAM is expected in Calcutta to be present at the opening of the Exhibition.

THE death is announced from Calcutta of Baboo Piari Chand Mittra, the first Bengali novelist, and a distinguished man of letters.

A PAINFUL incident occurred on November 2at the Reform Club, London. Mr. John Davison, a retired Indian Office official, and one of the oldest members of the club, was seized in the central hall with a fainting fit, due to a long-standing disease of the heart. He was lifted in a state of insensibility on to one of the sofas in the hall, and died before any help could be rendered. For some time his body remained upon the sofa on which it had been placed, covered with a white sheet. Mrs. Davison arrived in town from the country just in time to hear of her bereavement. Mr. Davison has for some years been an invalid, though able to move about. His custom was, when in London, to spend his afternoon at the Reform Club, of which he had been a member for nearly thirty years. He is stated to have been a lineal descendant of Queen Elizabeth's Secretary of State, and the member of a family which had given many servants to the country.

THE Acting Resident of the Lampong districts, Sunda Straits, reports that the number of persons who perished there during the eruption of Krakatau on the 26th and 27th August, amounts to 12,539 natives and 5 Europeans, 95 villages being also washed away. The distressed survivors have been liberally supplied by Government with rice and salt, and relief works have also been started for their benefit. Clearing away the ruins of Telok Betong and other desolated towns and villages, and repairing roads, were being actively proceeded with. The pumice fields blocking up Lampong Bay had begun to drift away, leaving extensive tracts of open water along the coast near Telok Betong. Paddy planting had been actively resumed, notwithstanding great difficulty met with from thick layers of volcanic ashes, which necessitated deep tillage and hindered the burning of jungle. The most severely-stricken portion of the Lampongs seems to be the island of Sebessi, abounding in pepper plantation, and with a population estimated at about 1,500 persons, who are stated to have all perished, being buried under a heap of ashes between five and six feet thick.

By the death of Lord Gardner, which took place a few weeks ago, an Anglo-Indian family is admitted into the ranks of the British peerage, as the title devolves on his cousin, Mr. Stewart William Gardner, of Munowta (!), in the North-West Provinces of India. The new peer is the eldest son of the late Rear-Admiral the Hon. Francis Farington Gardner, R. N., who died in July, 1821), by his marriage, in 1809, with Catherine, third daughter of Mr. Charles Spencer van Straubenzee, of Spenithorne, in Yorkshire, and was born on July 13, 1812. He was an officer in the East India Company's military service from 1829 to 1837, and served with the 55th, 28th, and 29th Regiments of Bengal Native Infantry. He was afterwards for five years superintendent of customs to His Highness the Maharaja Ram Sing of Jeypore, and in 1857 he defended himself for five months against the mutineers in his own mud fort. He married, on Aug. 28, 1834, his cousin, Jane Gardner, alias Hurmoozee Begum, daughter of Mr. Alan Gardner, and grand-daughter of Col. William Linnæus Gardner, who raised Gardner's Irregular Horse, and whose wife was a princess of Cashay. The new peer's wife is deceased, but she left twelve children, her eldest son being Mr. Alan Hyde Gardner, who was born on July 1, 1836, and is married to a native princess of the Delhi family who had previously embraced Christianity. The fourth son is also married to a converted princess of Delhi, and two other sons are married to converted natives of India, so that we now have an entire Eurasian family among the junior ranks of the aristocracy.

THE Athenæum states that Part I. of Professor Monier Williams's new work on "Religious Thought and Life in India," to be published during November by Mr. Murray, treats of Vedism, Brahmanism, and Hindooism, and will be sold as a separate and independent work. Part II. will embrace the other religious systems prevalent in India, but will not be published until the Professor's return from a third Indian journey he is about to undertake. He was to sail for Calcutta on the 21st inst. The Professor who has been invited by the Viceroy to visit India, will go direct to Calcutta by the Ancona, the Englishman says, and will stay at Bombay on his way back to Europe. His main object will be to consult with the Indian subscribers to the Oxford Indian Institute as to the best method of utilizing the Institute (the opening of which will take place early in June, 1884) for the good of India. He also wishes to collect information to enable him to complete the second part of his work on the religions of India, the first part of which is now being published by Mr. Murray, Albemarle-street, London.

HENRY thus remonstrates with his friend :—"Your remarks, Edmund, about the 'pretty little military job intended for the benefit of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught,' contain, I think, more inaccuracies than I have ever seen embodied in one short paragraph. Meerut is not 'a fever-stricken spot,' and it is not 'often stigmatised as the White Man's Grave.' Peshawur bears that character. The 'Sir Arthur Hardinge' you speak of should be General the Hon'ble A. E. Hardinge, C.B., and 'Major-General Phayre' should be Lieut.-General Sir R. Phayre, K.C.B. Then the Duke of Connaught could not possibly have been supposed to be 'next in seniority on the spot,' as Meerut is in the Bengal Presidency ; and, lastly, there is not the smallest reason why H. R. H. should not succeed General Hardinge were it considered desirable, regardless of there being senior officers to him serving in the command, as in previous cases the difficulty has been frequently met by the bestowal of local rank."

IT is a fact fully recognised in the Court entourage, says Truth, that the Duke has gone to India in order that there may be a plausible excuse—first, for creating him a Field-Marshal on his return, and, secondly, for his subsequent speedy appointment to succeed the Duke of Cambridge as Commander-in-Chief. This is no mere conjectural speculation, for the whole business is an arranged sequel to the Duke's campaign in Egypt. The late Duke of Wellington never saw the Queen during the last ten years of his life without earnestly impressing on her the absolute necessity for her keeping the command of the Army in the Royal Family, whatever else she let go ; and the advice was quite in accordance with the views of Her Majesty and of Prince Albert, who, however, was too sagacious to allow himself to be appointed Commander-in-Chief. In later days the Duke's advice was repeated by the old King of the Belgians, and by other German relatives, including, I believe, the Emperor, who had a long conversation with Her Majesty on "affairs" when she visited Baden a few years ago. In this connection all the politics of the Court and of Court circles have been directed towards the one end of seeing the Duke of Connaught installed at the Horse Guards ; but it is decidedly not an arrangement which would meet with the sanction of a Liberal Cabinet, and it would excite very great discontent and universal disapproval in the country. The Duke of Connaught receives £25,000 a year from the country, and with that he should be content, says Mr. Labouchere.

THE Liverpool Mercury understands that an investigation which has been made into Mr. Ranger's affairs since the publication of his suspension has revealed the disagreeable fact, already anticipated by the unsecured creditors, that the dividend, if any at all, will be very small indeed. The losses which have fallen on Liverpool have been ascertained to amount to between £400,000 and £500,000. The same paper states that about thirty of the most influential firms of cotton brokers have given in their adhesion to a scheme for the adoption of fortnightly settlements. The payments for the October contracts are rapidly being made as the 10th draws near, and it is not expected that any hitch will occur which will create serious uneasiness or lead to further failures before the ten days' time allowance expires.

Truth affects to tell the true story of the quarrel which has taken place between the Grand Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and his nephew, the Duke of Edinburgh :—

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh did not countermand the ball in celebration of the Duchess's birth-day. Every preparation had been made for it ; the saloons were lighted up, the musicians were in attendance, and the supper was ready, but the guests never appeared ! The Grand Duke, on the morning of the fete, sent a peremptory order, not only to every one connected with his Court, but also to all the nobility of the Duchy, that they should abstain from attending the ball. It certainly was a most gross affront, and it is not strange that the Duke and Duchess should have resented it by abruptly leaving Coburg on the following morning, the Duchess and the children going to Darmstadt, while the Duke rushed with all speed to Berlin to lay his wrongs before the Emperor. The Grand Duke has always been a sort of Sultan, and it is not the first time that difficulties have arisen in Coburg "society" from his insisting upon bringing forward persons who, according to the rigid code of German etiquette, have no claims to the distinction bestowed on them. In this case the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh positively refused to invite the Baroness von Pattberg, who is a natural daughter of the Grand Duke. How the affair will end it is impossible to conjecture. There has long been a decided coolness between the parties, and now mortal offence seems to have been given on both sides. The Duke and Duchess cannot well return to Coburg, and the Grand Duke will no doubt deprive his heir of every mark which is in his power, even if he does not go still further, and come to an "arrangement" with the German Government, who would not be too scrupulous about "rights" and "interests" if it were to their interest to ignore them. In the meanwhile the Grand Duke is giving away orders and titles with unprecedented liberality, and if ever the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh do find themselves settled at Coburg, it will take them some time to reorganise the confused and mixed society of the Duchy.

THE forty-second anniversary of the birthday of the Prince of Wales was celebrated in London in the customary manner on November 9. From an early hour the bells of some of the West-end churches rang out merry peals. Flags were hoisted on several of the public buildings, and the band of the Grenadier Guards played a selection of music in the courtyard of St. James's Palace, adjacent to Marlborough House. Illuminations were displayed in most of the principal West-end thoroughfares in the evening. The day was celebrated at Windsor by the ringing of the bells of St. George's and St. John's churches. The "Royal borough" was decked with flags and salutes were fired.

ANOTHER failure in the cotton trade consequent on the fall of Mr. Morris Ranger occurred on Nov. 2. Messrs. Hollingshead, Tetley, and Co., a long-established firm of cotton brokers, have announced their inability to meet their engagements. They are among the largest of Mr. Morris Ranger's creditors, ranking on his estate to the amount of about £100,000. Their own liabilities are said to be quite over that amount. This is the fifth firm which Mr. Ranger's failure has brought down.

THE writer of the Pall Mall Gazette's "City Notes" remarks :—"It is probably a good sign for the progress of the cotton trade that the Liverpool cotton market yesterday (Nov. 8) was easier. The approaching settlement there is felt as a critical time, a good many houses being suspected of rottenness in consequence of Mr. Ranger's collapse. His account for the fall not being liquidated, others are put in his place, as interested in getting cotton cheaply, and their solvency depends upon the rise in the price of cotton. Not till next week will members of the Liverpool cotton trade be able to breathe freely."

THE Commercio de Portugal of Nov. 8 publishes, as official, the following telegram from St. Vincent, received the previous night :—"Brito Capello, Commander of the Angola naval station, has occupied Landana, on the West Coast of Africa, a place situated in five degrees twenty minutes south latitude. M. de Brazza has been assassinated by a native." The Pall Mall Gazette remarks :—The telegram announcing the assassination of M. de Brazza published this morning is not conclusive as to the fate of the French lieutenant who attempted to annex the Congo with pocket-handkerchiefs. There are two M. de Brazzas in Central Africa, and the last news to hand before the receipt of this telegram was that it was not the chief of the French expedition, but his brother who had been killed. Further intelligence will be awaited with some anxiety.

MR. JUSTICE STEPHEN continues, in the Times of November 9, his statement on behalf of the opposition to the Ilbert Bill so far as it is concerned with the question of jurisdiction. In the course of five columns, however, he confines himself to examining the contention that "it is anomalous that while natives of India are admitted to the Covenanted Civil Service and held competent to discharge the highest judicial duties, they should be deemed incompetent to be justices of the peace and to exercise jurisdiction over European British subjects outside Presidency towns." The current of the learned judge's argument seems, briefly put, to be that the anomaly does indeed exist, but that it is founded on "the wish of Europeans to be tried by their own countrymen, apart from all questions of moral or intellectual competency.

A MEETING of Anglo-Indians will shortly be held in London to consider the steps necessary to be taken in view of the exhibition proposed by the Prince of Wales to be held in 1886 of the art industries of Her Majesty's Indian and colonial possessions. The object of the meeting is to prepare a memorial to the Prince of Wales and Her Majesty's Government praying that, in prospect of this exhibition, the duties upon gold and silver plate, and the law of "compulsory" hall-marking, by which articles either wholly composed of gold or silver or articles the ornamentation of which depends upon the precious metals, are, even after payment of the duty, absolutely prohibited from being exposed for sale unless previously hall-marked at a British assay office, may be abolished in the ensuing session of Parliament. It will be urged that, under a voluntary system, hall-marking can be made much more useful to the public, while, at the same time, it will be a simple act of justice to Indian manufacturers to permit the free importation of their productions into the United Kingdom.

ISMAIL PASHA, ex-Khedive of Egypt, arrived in London from Paris on November 8.

LORD KIMBERLEY has appointed Mr. Havell, of the Science and Art Department at South Kensington, to the Superintendentship of the Madras School of Art. Mr. Havell's is the fourth appointment of this kind that has been made from South Kensington.

A REUTER'S telegram from Madrid, November 8, states :—It is reported that a diplomatic Note has been received from the French Government closing the incident between France and Spain. The French Government ratifies the declarations of the President of the Republic inserted in the Officiel Journal, and authorizes the Spanish Government to publish them in the Madrid Official Gazette.

MILITARY NEWS.

THE Committee appointed to revise the dress of the Bengal Cavalry regiments has finished its sittings, and the Lahore paper believes that the main recommendations made are as follows :—That the number of colours be reduced from seven to three,—khaki, blue, and scarlet ; that the uniforms of the officers of each regiment should consist of two suits only, a lightly trailded parade jacket to take the place of the tunic and patrol jacket, and the mess jacket so modified as to be convertible into full dress when required ; also that the braiding of all the regiments should be similar, so that even if an officer changed from one to a scarlet regiment, he could still utilize his gold lace on his new uniform. The inexpensive blouse would of course be retained by all regiments that desired it. The cost of the complete revised uniform—not including accoutrements—should not exceed Rs. 400 to Rs. 450.

THE G. I. P. RAILWAY CHARGES.

THE following correspondence between the Chamber of Commerce and the G. I. P. Railway authorities has been sent us for publication :—

GRAIN RATES.

Chamber of Commerce, Bombay, 19th Nov., 1883.

To the Agent of the G. I. P. Railway Company, Bombay.

Sir,—the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce desire me to thank you for the reduction from the 1st instant of the rates which you have announced in the carriage of grain and seeds. They direct me, however, to say that having regard to the exigencies of the wheat export trade they cannot look with satisfaction on any rates for the carriage of wheat, which are higher than those on the S. P. and D. Railway ; and they trust that the remarkable effect of those rates in increasing traffic, as shown by the Chamber in its letter to you of the 17th ultimo, will induce your Board of Directors to introduce similar rates on the G. I. P. line.

In the meantime, the Committee desire to point out that, in the recent reductions, the rates from some of the best wheat-producing districts are either left untouched or are fixed at rates higher than those in force previously to 1st May, 1881. For instance, the rates from the stations between Piparia and Pachhali inclusive are now 9 annas 6 pies per maund, while they were in every case lower before May, 1881, as were also the rate from the stations on the Nagpur branch, between Murtizapur and Paras inclusive. Again the rates from the stations between Timarni and Khandwa, which were increased by a higher percentage on 1st May, 1881, than the rates from other stations on the G. I. P. line, are unaltered, and the great increase made on that occasion remains in force.

The Committee are not aware of any reason why the rates from these stations should not likewise be reduced to, or below, the level of the rates ruling previously to May, 1881 ; and they have no hesitation in saying that such a reduction would be very beneficial to the wheat trade. They desire me therefore to express their hope that you will at an early date be able to grant this concession.—I have, &c.,

J. GORDON, Secretary.

Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company

Bombay, 21st Nov. 1883.

The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay.

Sir,—I am desired to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 19th instant on the subject of the rates charged on this Railway for the carriage of wheat, and to inform you that the letter will be forwarded by next mail for the consideration of the directors.—I have &c.

H. C. RADFORD, Acting Secretary.

COTTON RATES.

Chamber of Commerce, Bombay, 19th Nov. 1883.

To the Agent of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company, Bombay.

Sir,—I am desired by the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce to address you on the subject of the rates charged by the G. I. P. Railway Company for the carriage of full pressed bales of piece-goods and yarn.

Except in the case of the specially fixed rates, these goods are charged third class rates on the G. I. P. line, while on the B. B. and C. I., the Madras, the S. I., the S. P. and D., and other lines they are carried as second class goods. The Committee respectfully submit the desirability of reducing the rates to the same class as the B. B. and C. I. Railway Company charge, the present being a favourable time for doing so, and making a further effort to push Bombay imports into the up-country markets when ocean freight has fallen so low as 17s. 6d. per ton from Manchester to Bombay including all changes, and 12s. 6d. per ton from Glasgow. The great number of wagons, moreover, which now leave Bombay empty permits of the Railway Company making the experiment without any risk of loss.

The Committee need only add that in their opinion a great increase in the traffic would be the result ; and the Company have now before them a proof of what a reduction in rates can bring about in the enormous increase that has lately been shewn in the parcel traffic.—I have, &c.,

J. GORDON, Secretary.

Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company,

Bombay, 21st Nov. 1883.

The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay.

Sir,—I am desired to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 19th instant, on the subject of the rates charged on this Railway for the carriage of full-pressed bales of piece-goods and yarn, and to state the Committee's suggestion will no doubt have the directors' most careful consideration.—I have, &c.,

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE ILBERT BILL.

THE Pioneer publishes the following telegram from "a correspondent, whose discretion and accuracy may be relied upon," and who "communicates from the present head-quarters of the Imperial Government" :—

"LAHORE, 25th Nov.

"The Viceroy's visit naturally gives rise to many surmises regarding the modified Ilbert Bill. After consulting the best sources of information, I can confidently repeat that Lord Northbrook's announcement was in every way correct. I may add that it was unexpected by the Indian Government as well as by the public. Lord Ripon, when he went to Kashmir, and until the telegrams arrived, had no reason to suppose that the announcement of his modified policy would first be made at home. The Viceroy has been criticised for not making the announcement himself ; this was impossible setting aside the difficulties that always arise when the Indian Government has to make known its intentions. It would have been out of the question in this case, even had the Viceroy been in Calcutta, for his Excellency to make any definite statement until Lord Kimberley's despatch, conveying the decisions of the Home Government, reaches India. This despatch is expected next mail. Even then it is impossible to say how soon the Viceroy may have an oppor unity of taking the public into his confidence.

Lord Northbrook's statement, I believe, may be taken as clearly defining the proposed modifications. There is no idea, I am assured, of extending the habeas corpus to natives ; it is possible, however, that when the Bill comes to be redrafted, some provision may be inserted which will guard against unreasonable or frivolous recourse, on the part of either native or European prisoners, to the Turner clause. Possibly this matter is touched on in Lord Kimberley's despatch. Possibly it will be left till the time comes for redrafting the Bill. It has been suggested that the Bill may perhaps be postponed till Parliament meets. This is unlikely. The Indian Government, which is in no hurry to pass the Bill, might and very likely would, prefer this course, but the question must be decided by the Cabinet, and from what I can hear, no delay is likely to be sanctioned from this quarter. At the same time the Government will not hurry the Bill through Council in any way. We may safely calculate that even if the opposition subsides, the Bill cannot well be passed before the middle of January. It must then be sent home, and by the time it is submitted for the Queen's sanction, Parliament will be sitting. If any leading member of the Opposition takes up the cause of the Anglo-Indian objectors, there will still be time to impede the passing of the Bill into law. With regard to the question whether the Government has sustained a defeat or not, I believe the theory of the India Government to be that its main principles are not affected by the proposed modifications. The principle of the Bill in the modified, as in the original form, is that race disqualifications are to be removed. Race disqualifications are very different from race distinctions, which are left pretty well as they were.

THE OPENING OF THE CALCUTTA EXHIBITION.

THE Pioneer's correspondent telegraphs the following as an outline of the opening ceremony on December the 4th in connection with the International Exhibition :—

"The Viceroy, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Lady Ripon, the Governor of Bombay, and the Governor-General of the Portuguese Settlements, will arrive at the central entrance at 4-15 p.m., where the Lieutenant-Governor and the Executive Committee will receive them. After the party have reached the dais an inaugural cantata will be sung, and the Lord Bishop of Calcutta will invoke a blessing. After a brief report from the Committee the Lieutenant-Governor will ask the Viceroy to declare the Exhibition open. This Lord Ripon will do in a suitable address, and at its conclusion the building will be suddenly lighted up by electricity, and a salute be fired from Fort William. The foreign and colonial delegates, and the representatives of exhibitors and of the several Indian provinces will be presented, and the Viceregal party will then leave, after having passed through the chief courts. A guard-of-honor of British Infantry will be in attendance."

FRANCE AND CHINA.

THE only startling piece of news received in England from China during the week before the mail left was the alleged occupation of Bac Ninh and Sontay by the French troops, and this was speedily and emphatically contradicted. It is said that the Minister of War is preparing a reserve of 10,000 troops ready to despatch to Tongking if necessary, and it is expected that supplementary votes of credit to the amount of 10,000,000£. will be asked for. The transport Mytho will proceed to Algeria to embark half a squadron of cavalry, consisting of three officers, fifty men, and fifty horses, under orders for service in Tongking. The Gaulois has reported a conversation between the Marquis Tseng and its representative, who was sent to Folkestone for the purpose of interviewing the Marquis. The Marquis said that in the event of war Tongking and Annam will make common cause with China, and a French army of 40,000 would be insufficient to overcome the allied forces of China, Tongking, and Annam. The Marquis further said that the commercial interests of Great Britain would be so seriously affected that the English Government would be forced to intervene. It is said that M. Waddington has been specially instructed to sound the Gladstone Cabinet, and, if possible, come to an understanding with England, both as regards China and Madagascar. The official opinion, according to one correspondent, is that there will be no war, and that Chinese protests mean nothing. Under all circumstances France, he adds, is determined to keep Tongking. England is the only cause for anxiety, and it is admitted that the relations between the two countries are at present anything but cordial.

THE following telegram, dated Hong Kong, November 7, has been received at the London office of the New York Herald :—"Important advices from Haiphong reach me to-day. Admiral Courbet has decided to postpone his advance upon Bac-ninh, where the Chinese garrison has been preparing for a desperate resistance. He proposes to wait until the rice crop has been gathered and the roads shall become sufficiently hard for the transport of the heavy cannon which he intends to use in the siege. His march will begin about the first week in December, by which time the Chinese Government will have made up its mind either to assist the garrison or leave it to its fate. Dr. Harmand, the Civil Commissioner for France, leaves by the first mail for that country. His removal from the command is regarded in Tongking as removing the chief obstacle to a successful French campaign. Since he was superseded there has been perfect accord between the naval and military forces, and the jealousies which had begun to mar the prospects of the expedition have entirely disappeared. From Chinese sources I learn that General Pang, a distinguished Chinese officer, is coming from the north to take command of the troops in the south. He has won an excellent reputation in putting down former rebellions against the reigning dynasty, and has the confidence of the party which favours war. The troops of which he will assume command are now gathering in large numbers on the Tongking frontier. Throughout the empire military preparations are being pushed actively forward. All the arsenals are busy. Many regiments hitherto stationed in the northern districts are marching south. It is admitted by everybody that the Peking authorities are making vigorous efforts to counteract the effect of recent French reinforcements." An official telegram received at the French Foreign Office on Monday stated that Ninh-binh had been occupied without resistance. A number of French reinforcements were expected to arrive in Tongking this week, and more are about to embark from Algeria.

THE TRICOU TELEGRAM.

THE Marquis Tseng has received a telegram from the Tsung-li Yamen, expressing the utmost astonishment of the Chinese Government at the telegram from M. Tricou, which M. Ferry read to the French Chamber the other day. Both the Government and Li Hung Chang deny having expressed the slightest desire that M. Tricou should remain, and testify their unqualified approval of the manner in which the Marquis Tseng has carried out his instructions on the subject of the Tongking question. The Note has been sent to the French Minister for Foreign Affairs.

The Times prints the following with reference to the telegram from M. Tricou which was read in the French Chamber by M. Ferry :—"We are in a position to state that the Tricou telegram, regarding which we yesterday published the information that it had met with a formal and full denial from the Chinese Government, will form the subject of an important despatch which is being addressed to the French Government. The despatch will be found to contain not only an expression of the astonishment of the Chinese Government at M. Tricou's telegram, a circumstantial denial of the statement that either the Government or Li Hung Chang had expressed any desire that M. Tricou should remain, and that Li Hung Chang had in any way "disavowed" the conduct of the Marquis Tseng, but will also contain an expression of the warm and unqualified approval of the manner in which the Marquis has carried out his instructions. The despatch will also express the astonishment of the Chinese Government that the French Cabinet should have received M. Tricou's telegram without question, and should have used it at once publicly in the Chamber. We understand that M. Tricou's telegram was dated from Shanghai on the 29th of October, Li Hung Chang being at Tientsin at the time, which is distant three days from Shanghai. The conversation, if held, must have occurred some days before and at Tientsin, and not at Shanghai. It is not likely that when affairs were at such a tention M. Tricou would have left on it being evident to him that the Chinese were on the very point of yielding what he required. At least he would not have started by the Volta the same evening, but would have awaited further instructions from the French Foreign Office. M. Ferry must have been aware of this when he read the telegram to the Chamber. With regard to the withdrawal of the Embassy from Paris, no instructions have as yet been received from Peking on the matter ; and without such instructions the Embassy will certainly not be withdrawn. As to the threatened attack upon Back-ninh, it is not as yet known at the Embassy whether such a movement on the part of the French would lead to the declaration of war by China ; but it is believed that it would tend very much to complicate affairs, and may make any amicable arrangement impossible. The Marquis Tseng still hopes that the French may yet see the wisdom of a pieceful solution, and not force China to protect its interests by an appeal to arms."

M. FERRY INTERVIEWED.

THE Paris correspondent of the Standard sends an account of an interview which he has had with M. Jules Ferry. The subjects touched upon in the conversation were the relations with England arising out of the Madagascar business ; the case of H.M.S. Dryad ; the rumoured intention of France to annex New Guinea, the Tongking troubles ; the Tricou telegram, and the relations with China generally. The following passages are taken from the correspondent's statement :—

"M. Ferry intimated that he thought the feeling of distrust of France which the British press reflected, and which seemed to be entertained by a portion of the community in England, was not warranted by facts and was not justified by any action on the part of the French Government. He has admitted that since 1881 the cordial feeling existing between the two countries had undergone a change for the worse. Whatever might appear in the newspapers notwithstanding, he assured the correspondent that nothing could be more alien to the thoughts and wishes of the French Government than the intention imputed to it to disregard the interests of England, or even to do anything calculated to be offensive to the patriotic feelings of the British people. The essence of the policy of the French Government was, to quote Lord Beaconsfield's phrase, 'peace with honour.' The correspondent pointed out that the existence of the scolding spirit in the press was perhaps to be accounted for by what had taken place in Madagascar, ever since the settlement of the Shaw difficulty :—'I instanced the fact of two French men-of-war watching the Dryad, as she escorted a British merchantman to some point on the coast, clearing for action, and hoisting machine-guns into their tops. M. Ferry shrugged his shoulders, and said : 'Clearing for action ! Can you really believe that that is true ?' He intimated that it must be an induction of the missionaries, and he added, 'Ces missionaires sont des diables.' Without going into details, he seemed to hold a strong opinion that the missionaries in Madagascar were "not apostles of peace." With regard to Lord Normanby's assumption that the French intended to annex New Guinea and make it a penitentiary for criminals, M. Ferry said :—'This is not true. We have no intention of annexing New Guinea, or, indeed, of making any further annexations. That story was probably started by those Australian colonists who, in defiance of the veto of Lord Derby, want to annex New Guinea themselves. The one subject that has formed the subject of correspondence between England and France has been the archipelago of the New Hebrides, and that correspondence took place in 1877, when the Duke Decazes was in charge of the Foreign Office. By that correspondence it was stipulated that neither Engladd nor France should lay hands on the New Hebrides ; and since then that correspondence has been reopened. We have no intention to touch New Guinea, in any way.' The conversation then turned to China. M. Ferry entertains a very strong opinion that Chinese diplomatists are neither frank, honest, truthful, nor ingenuous. In military power of China he utterly disbelieves ; but he is also firmly convinced that, whatever tall talk the Chinese dipomatists may indulge in, there is not remotest chance of China going to war. As to Tongking, it was no Chinese the position, China had absolutely nothing to do with it. France had treaty-rights over it. The object of Chinese diplomacy, he incidentally remarked, would be this—that France should evacuate Tongking at the bidding of China ; and he added : "Supposing that England held the position that France holds in Tongking, would she abandon that position at the bidding of the Chinese ? Would the people of England tolerate, with the good temper that we have shown, the extraordinary conduct of the Marquis Tseng towards the French Government ? Certainly not." The general outcome of my interview with M. Ferry (the correspondent says) amounts to this :—"The French do not intend to annex New Guinea ; they mean to hold and occupy Tongking ; they will not go to war with China unless they are compel for the frame being partly imported from Europe and partly manufactured at the arsenal out of scrap iron and Chinese-made charcoal brought down from the interior. The coal used at Foochow is from Keelung, in Formosa; but charcoal is very plentiful, and is largely used. Some of the composite corvettes built here are said to have reached a speed of 12½ knots per hour; and attempts are being made to construct improved vessels that will have a speed of 15 knots. There are large training-schools at Foochow for the navy of the province and for supplying the native technical staff of the arsenal. Some of the young Chinese officials have been educated in France, America, and elsewhere, and are exceedingly intelligent and well-informed. A large number of students are now being trained in France for service at Foochow Arsenal.—Pall Mall Gazette.

ENGLAND, FRANCE AND MADAGASCAR.

A PRIVATE letter received in London reports the following proceedings on the part of the French commandant at Tamatave:—"The Dryad accompanied the British barque Isabel to the Island of Prunes, eight miles from Tamatave, in order that she might take in ballast after she had discharged the cargo of coal she had brought for the Dryad. The British vessel was immediately followed by the Beautemps Beaupre, which anchored a hundred yards off the Dryad, and about an hour after by another French war ship, which cast anchor on the other side of the Dryad at about the same distance. The second French vessel immediately proceeded to clear her forward deck for action, and mounted Gatlings in her foretop, and pointed them at the Dryad. Beyond this, however, the French ships did not interfere, but they remained alongside the Dryad until the ballasting of the Isabel was completed, and then steamed back to Tamatave. Commander Johnstone states that he previously informed the French Commandant of his intention to accompany the Isabel to ballast at Prune Island."

According to the Figaro, the animosity between the sailors of the English and French naval divisons in Nadagascar waters, far from diminishing, has considerably increased since the departure of Admiral Pierre. The Figaro says:—"A collision is feared, which would be a catastrophe to both England and France. What is most unfortunate is that the officers share the sentiments which animate their men." The continued presence at Tamatave of the English vessel, the Dryad, is, the Figaro says, considered as a provocation by the officers of the French squadron.

THE Times publishes the following letter:—"Sir,—Can any man worthy of the name of Englishman read without burning indignation the aggregation of insults heaped upon our nation by the French Government? Are we, without more than diplomatic remonstrance, to allow, in addition to past insults, a British man-of-war, as narrated in The Times of to-day, with national flag flying, to be intimidated by 'cleared decks' and 'Gatling guns?' When is this to cease? When will ships of sufficient size be despatched to neutralize the force that enables this bullying policy to continue? Or are we patiently to submit without practical remonstrance? The 25,000f. is a poor bribe to compensate for this latest insult. There is many a one in this country who is beginning to blush at being compelled to sign himself

CIVIS BRITANNICUS SUM."

London, Nov 2."

A letter from Tamatave, dated the 4th ult., published in the Salavien, a newspaper of the island of Bourbon, asserts that the Malagasy Ambassadors, who recently returned from Europe, had been strangled by order of the Government, together with the Prime Minister. Tasiava, the son of Queen Razoherina, who reigned before Queen Ranavalo, was said to have been appointed to the office of Prime Minister. Private letters received by the French Mail, dated from Mahanooro, Madagascar, the 2nd of October, make no mention whatever of the reported execution. The letters referred to brought news of the very latest date, it is believed, from the capital which has reached this country. Mauritius merchants in London place no reliance on the statement of the Reunion papers, which, they say, are altogether untrustworthy. No credence either is attached to the report by the London Missionary Society.

The Times says:—According to information brought from Madagascar by the last Mauritius mail, the French at Tamatave were compelled to live on fish, as their meat supply had failed. Fever was very prevalent among the troops. The Hovas occupied strong positions about five kilometres behind Tamatave, completely cutting off all communication with the interior. Fever was also very severe among the French troops at Majunga. The Hovas were in strong force in the rear of that place, and had cut off all supplies from the interior. They had also taken up a strong position near Morondava, in the south-west, in order to keep it open. They had secured a large supply of gunpowder from America.

BRITISH SUBJECTS IN MADAGASCAR.

"One of the Sufferers" writes to the Times from Mauritius, October 8:—

Sir,—The painful situation of British subjects, merchants, traders, planters, and other settlers in Madagascar calls for the urgent and immediate solicitude of Her Majesty's Government.

The hostilities carried on by the French forces and the occupation of Tamatave have simply had for result the stoppage of nearly the whole of the foreign trade of the country, three-fourths of which was carried on by English, American, and German subjects, with Mauritius, and the entire ruin of those who were engaged in agricultural pursuits chiefly in sugar estates owned by British subjects, over 20 sugar properties and five British factories having been entirely ruined by these events. In fact, so little have the Hovas suffered from the action of the French forces that it may be said without invidiousness that the sole result of the French operations in Madagascar up to the present time has been rather the destruction of European and American trade and agriculture than of harm to the Hovas.

Since the occupation of Tamatave by the French in June last they have simply kept there a sufficient garrison to defend the town, which is closely blockaded by the Hova forces, who prevent any supplies from reaching the place from the interior. The few inhabitants who have remained are obliged to import from Mauritius and Reunion the food supplies they require.

If, as is reported, the French Government intend to maintain the status quo, simply keeping a garrison at Tamatave, awaiting the submission of the Hovas, and no active measures be decided on, it may be feared that the present state of things will last for a very long period, during which the whole of the foreign community will be kept suffering and its ruin be completed.

The wants of the Malagash are so moderate, the interior of the country furnishing in abundance all the necessary supplies of food in rice and cattle, that they will scarcely suffer from the stoppage of trade or from the privation of the Customs dues, a very small portion of the latter ever reaching the capital.

The Hovas believe that their position at Antananarivo is impregnable, and are profiting by the inaction of the French forces to raise and discipline all their people, hoping also that the unhealthiness of the climate and the natural difficulties of the road will defer the French from an attempt to march on their capital.

Under these circumstances, it is to be feared that no hope of speedy peace can be entertained. Meanwhile the ruin of British subjects is complete, and their unfortunate position calls for the care and protection of Her Majesty's Government.

The position of the sugar planters is peculiarly painful, the occupation of Tamatave by the French forces having caused the loss of the whole of their crops and their complete ruin, reducing them all from affluence to poverty.

We have not to criticize the action of the French Government in Madagascar, but we submit that it cannot be fair that British subjects who settled in that country under the guarantee of treaties passed by England and France in 1832 and 1868, without any reserve having been made by the latter country of rights now said to have existed since 1845, should be allowed to suffer loss and ruin from the action of the French Government in the assertion of rights of which nothing was known previous to last year.

Evidently, had such rights been reserved in 1868 they must have been settled by treaty or otherwise, or no European would ever have risked life and property in Madagascar.

The absence of the British Consul from Tamatave and the strict supervision exercised by the French authorities over all correspondence from that place make it very difficult for British subjects to lay their case before their Government. Few planters and merchants who have sought refuge in Mauritius have, however, appealed to Her Majesty's Government for its protection, to obtain for them from the French Government the indemnity justly due to them for the ruin cast upon them by the action of its agents in Madagascar, and they venture to solicit the aid of The Times to lay their case before the British public.—I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,

Mauritius, Oct. 8. "ONE OF THE SUFFERERS."

MR. MACLEAN ON PATRIOTISM.

AT a banquet to Sir Richard Cross, at Aberdeen, on Nov. 2, Mr. J. M. Maclean proposed the toast of "Capital and Labour, and Trade and Manufacture," and said—We had lately in the city of Aberdeen a Liberal demonstration, at which that ingenious Radical statesman, the Earl of Fife—(laughter)—made a speech, in which he seemed quite unable to recover from the surprise he apparently felt at finding that England had a very large empire in all parts of the world, and he told the electors of Banffshire that when they sent representatives to Parliament they voted not only for the administration of the affairs of this country, but also for the government of many millions of human beings in all parts of the world owning the sway of Queen Victoria. I must say I was delighted to read such sentiments coming from such a man; but think, gentlemen, what would be said of a Conservative statesman who thought it necessary to appeal to an assembly of Conservatives to remember that they were patriots. Patrotism is always in our thoughts. It is the law of our being. (Great cheering.) But these Radical orators, when they moralise on the decay of patriotism in modern days, never seem to reflect that it is entirely their own doing, and that the men of their party are what they have made them. The Earl of Fife told his hearers that he thought there was one patent remedy. Whenever they desired to know what they ought to do in the government of the various nationalities subject to the Queen throughout the world, he said what they had to do was to put trust in their great leader, Mr. Gladstone.—(laughter)—and then follows the eulogy with which we are all familiar, that Mr. Gladstone has the fire of youth, with the experience of age, and so forth. It seems to me a very odd thing for an enlightened Liberal, when asked to form a judgment, to shut his eyes, mutter the holy name of Gladstone, and then shoot Niagara. (Laughter.) That is something like the Hindu devotee who mutters the holy name of Lama, and then throws himself into the Ganges to wash away his sins. Gentleman, consider for a moment what this trust in Mr. Gladstone means. Mr. Gladstone, along with these other qualities which all of us really respect—applause),—has, according to Sir Charles Dilke, a real love of righteousness. In connection with this matter, I would ask you to read an exceedingly interesting letter which appears in the last number of the Edinburgh Review. It is a letter written by Mr. Gladstone to the son of a Lord Aberdeen, who was Prime Minister at one time of England; and it is worth studying this letter, not only because it is a really charming piece of elegant compositon, but also because it throws a light on the character of Lord Aberdeen, and incidentally, also, on the character of Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Gladstone, in speaking of the Prime Minister, said that the great distinguishing quality in Lord Aberdeen which always impressed him was his love of justice. He was eminently a just man. Well, no doubt that is a very great quality to possess, but I cannot help thinking that when Mr. Gladstone wrote these words, he had in his mind another statesman, a rival of Lord Aberdeen—Lord Palmerston—and that Mr. Gladstone intended to hit at him as a statesman who was not so eminently just. Now, what was the praise bestowed on Lord Palmerston by one who had been his colleague for many years? He did not say Lord Palmerston was a man who is eminently just in all his dealings, who, whenever he has to study the foreign affairs of this country, considers the interests of all the races of mankind. He said of him—'My noble friend is not the Minister of Austria, nor the Minister of Prussia, nor the Minister of Russia, but he is the Minister of England.' (Cheers.) You might say the same thing about the great Conservative leader Lord Beaconsfield. (Cheers.) You might say of him, in contrast with his successor, that Lord Beaconsfield was not the Minister of the Afghans, nor the Minister of the Boers, nor the Minister of the Baboos, but the Minister of his fellow-countrymen who had placed him in power to protect their interests. (Cheers.) This quality of justice, this supervision, and this morality which Mr. Gladstone prides himself upon, is a great danger in the Prime Minister of this country. It makes him too apt at critical moments to forget that he is the Minister of England, and that it is the interests of this empire he has to protect. (Cheers.)

THE LONDON THEATRES.

MISS ANDERSON AS PAULINE.

THE favourable estimate formed of Miss Mary Anderson upon her first appearance at the Lyceum is strengthened by her second venture. How firm a hold upon the public has been taken by the brilliant and captivating artist is shown in the nature of the audience—scarcely to be distinguished from that on an ordinary first night at the Lyceum—which congregated to witness her assumption of Pauline. No miracle such as was accomplished by Miss Anderson in redeeming from contempt and elevating into a species of popularity a play which, like "Ingomar" had passed into a species of byword, was possible in the case of "The Lady of Lyons." In spite of its mock sentiment, its tinsel philosophy, and its sham poetry, "The Lady of Lyons," on account, perhaps, of the fine opportunities it offers an actress, remains a stock piece. For her predecessors in Pauline, Miss Anderson has had, accordingly, the chief actresses who have graced the English stage. Playgoers with long memories recall the poetic sensibility and the tender pathos of Miss Helen Faucit. As subsequent generation contemplated tho marvellous intensity and tragic power of Miss Neilson, and recollections of Miss Terry's bewitching tenderness and grace are still fresh in all minds, Anderson should go beyond these great artistes was not to be hoped. Full triumph is won in establishing her right to have her name henceforward linked with theirs.

The Pauline of Miss Anderson is a singularly fine, picturesque, tender, and impassioned performance. In grace and beauty it comes scarcely if at all behind her Parthenia, while it reveals the possession of a range of emotion of a totally different tange of talents. Again and again pictures of marvellous beauty and suggestiveness were supplied. The scene with which the fourth act opened, showing the heroine in a species of bridal attire sitting by the side of the fire and awaiting the arrival of her father, caused a murmur of approbation, which at length broke out into a volley of applause. Scarcely less effective was that when the bride, in full of an hour's travelling costume, appeared leaning on her husband's arm and listening to the explosions of derision from the peasants in the inn she had quitted. The scene in which the heroine listens to the wooing of her princely lover had ineffable beauty. In the stronger scenes the triumph, though not less brilliant, is less sustained. Miss Anderson has remarkable intensity, and her expression of scorn and indignation is not to be surpassed. She has also real pathos also, and shows to advantage her admirably trained powers. That she possesses the genuinely tragic gift is as yet not indicated. In the second act, in which the best opportunity is afforded for its display its presence was not felt. The strong situation in the cottage, when the injured woman first finds out the artifice by which she has been betrayed, was far less effective than were the scenes of relenting and pardon in the following act. In the third act, alone, indeed, did the interest of the public flag. The fourth act, superbly played, drew down thunders of applause, and the fifth, judiciously shortened, maintained a firm hold on the audience. Unmistakeably genuine were the manifestations of the public, which summoned Miss Anderson again and again before it. That Miss Anderson's art is broader than was at first surmised is proved by her latest appearance. Comedy does not seem the main gift, and the characters in which we hope to see her belong rather to the imagination and poetical drama than to comedy. She should be a delicious Rosaline or Beatrice, and she seems a living ideal of Miranda.

The support accorded Miss Anderson was far from satisfactory. Mr. Barnes spoke in a sustained monotone, and endeavoured by shouting to get over the effect of hoarseness. Mr. Forbes was a successful Damas, Mrs. Arthur Stirling a conventional Mdme. Deschappelles. Mr. Archer's Beauseant was most disappointing. A successful exponent of Widow Melnotte was supplied in Mrs. Billington. Mr. Stephens, however, admirable actor though he is, failed to assign much character to M. Deschappelles; and Mr. F. W. Irish, also a clever artist, was lost as the Landlord of the Inn. The triumph obtained belongs entirely to Miss Anderson. A triumph more undisputed and more honourable has seldom been chronicled.

A NEW COMIC OPERA.

The Comedy Theatre has had a brilliant career from the day when its doors were first opened, but of all Mr. Henderson's productions "Falka," M. Chassaigne's comic opera, known in Paris as "Le Droit d'Ainesse," which was produced on Monday night, seems likely to prove the most successful. From the rising of the curtain to the last chorus the opera met with one continued ovation. The performance was needlessly prolonged by the foolish enthusiasm of numerous friends who persisted encoring almost every song to the very last. In spite, however, of these injudicious people, the opera went throughout the evening with undagging spirit and vivacity. Mr. Farnie has adapted the libretto of M.M. Leterrier and Vanloo with considerable ingenuity, though in the process much of the salt of allusion and the double entendre which flavours the original has necessarily been excised. M. Chassaigne the composer of the score, known as a writer of song and dance music and other work of the same order, has written some very bright and tuneful music, full of pleasant melody and catching airs, many of which are likely enough to become extremely popular.

The story, as Mr. Farnie tells it, is a little complicated, but for this very reason it forms an admirable theme for the book of a comic opera. A title of nobility has been promised to Folbach, the military governor of a Hungarian province on condition that he can show a male heir, direct or collateral, who shall eventually succeed him. Unfortunately Folbach is childless himself. He then remembers the existence of his brother's children, Tancred and Falka, neither of whom he has ever seen. One is a village usher, the other the inmate of a convent. Tancred is senior, and on his way is captured by Boleslas, the chief of a gipsy tribe. From this awkward predicament Tancred is released by Edwige, the chief's sister, on condition, however, that he shall marry her. Discovering her identity, he declines to contract an alliance, flies, reaches his uncle's town in safety, and, fearful of Boleslas, takes refuge in the cellar of the village inn. Meanwhile Falka has eloped with Arthur, and they, too, reach the Folbach Arms, where the redoubtable governor is impatiently awaiting the arrival of Tancred. A number of amusing complications then arise. The runaway couple are run to earth by Brother Pelican, the convent doorkeeper. To escape him Folka disguises herself in one of the lover's dresses, and, hearing of Tancred's expected arrival, assumes his character, and is unwittingly accepted by Folbach with much pleasure as the rightful heir. To complicate matters still further, Boleslas and Edwige arrive in pursuit of the faithless Tancred, both of them being ignorant of his real appearance, and only hoping to recognize him by his voice. Poor Tancred, rather than marry into such a murderous family, allows his sister to take his place without a word; and as brother and sister have never met before this is the more easily managed. Father Pelican finds the castoff convent clothes, and suspecting that Falka has disguised herself as a boy (being of an uninquiring turn of mind, he has never seen her face), accepts Arthur in mistake for Falka, who in her turn is mistaken by Edwige and Boleslas for the runaway Tancred. A complete comedy of errors follows. Folbach wishes the supposed Tancred to marry an heiress, the real Tancred is discovered by his voice, and Folbach learns the deception that has been practised upon him. In the end all is cleared up, Tancred is happily wedded to Edwige, Falka, to the lover with whom she had eloped; and Boleslas to the heiress.

The representation was in all respects as good as it possibly could be. Miss Violet Cameron as Falka sang and played with great vivacity. Whether she appeared in her proper person, in the pretty blue and white costume of the convent, giving courage to her clownish lover, wheedling her crusty uncle with coquettish airs and madcap graces, or burlesquing it in male attire as the gay and debonair cavalier, she was equally fascinating. Miss Wadman, who played Edwige, the sister of the captain of the brigand, made her first appearance, and proved a powerful recruit, singing the music allotted to her with much freshness and finish. As Folbach, the military Governor of Mongratz, Mr. Harry Paulton played with much drollery and dry humour. Mr. Ashley provoked roars of laughter as the unfortunate and much-persecute Tancred, and Mr. Louis Kelleher was very amusing in the rather dangerous part of Arthur, his first appearance in girl's clothes being very effective. Mr. Penley was admirably "made up" as the wine-bibbing and ox-loving "holy father." Mr. W. H. Hamilton looked and played the brigand chiefs, Boleslas, to the life, and gave the songs entrusted to him with much robustness. All the art of the costumier had been lavished on the dresses. The rich attire of Falka, the fantastic gipsy costumes of Boleslar and Edwige the delicate colours of the chorus, were as bright and tasteful as could be, and the stage presented a brilliant mass of harmonious colours. And, in addition to all this, Messrs. Spong, Callcott, and Grieve have painted some very effective scenery. In fact, to sum up, "Falka," as it is produced at the Comedy, is one of the brightest and most attractive comic operas that has been seen for a long time, and has every prospect of a long and merry career before it.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE CATACOMBS OF PARIS.

At the mention of the word catacombs, our thoughts fly back to those early ages of the Church when the first followers of the doctrines of Christ hid themselves from the fury of the Roman emperors in caves and dungeons of the earth, since then known as catacombs, and of which many specimens are found in Rome. But the Catacombs of Paris mean nothing of this kind. It is comparatively of recent date—namely, under the Empire—that the removal of the bones from the over-crowded cemeteries and convent burial-places to these subterranean passages, earned them the name of Catacombs. Those so-called Catacombs form but a small portion of the immence excavations or stone quarries which undermine a great part of Paris. These vast quarries, of ancient date, from the white stone of which rose the beautiful city of Paris, have been from time to time the rendezvous of thieves and smugglers, who, marauded the capital, retreating to their dangerous hiding-place, where none dared attack them. A highly interesting novel styled "Les Catacombes de Paris" written some years since, which, though somewhat coloured with the sensational excitement necessary to attract the interest of the public, graphically describes these gloomy vaults as having been for some days the prison of a young and beautiful girl, who was seized and conveyed thither on leaving the celebrated convent of Val-de-Grace under which these carrieres extend. The lady is sought for in vain; and at length the distracted lover penetrates into these dark caverns, where he discovers his fiancée among a gang of counterfeit coiners, who for years have been the occupants of these gloomy dungeons. During the period of the first French Revolution numbers of people fled for safety to these vaults, to seek refuge as it were in the bowels of the earth from the political strife and crime at that time so fiercely contending in the gay capital. We see in the Catacombs the remains of the chapel and high-altar erected by these refugees, where, with sorrowing hearts, they attended daily the service of the mass. A little latter an alarm is given; the beautiful Palace of the Luxemburg, under which these quarries extend, has been seen to totter; and in order that the loved palace of the Medici may not be engulfed in the abyss upon which it has been discovered to stand, steps are taken to form a complete staff of workmen, whose soly duty consists in inspecting these ancient cavities and keeping them in thorough repair. Admission is not easily obtained to visit the whole extent of these carrieres. Those only who have private interest can penetrate into these dark abysses, which for the most part are considered unsafe for the public. The portion however known as the Catacombs is visited largely on the first and third Saturday of every month by numbers of foreigners, who, attracted by the novelty of such sightseeing, go in crowds to await their turn of admission. Application having been made, either by letter or in person, to the Ministre des Carrieres a card of admission is forwarded, requesting the visitor to be at the place of rendezvous—generally near the Barriere d'Enfer—precisely at 1-15 p.m. On arriving at his destination, the visitor finds himself in a courtyard, facing the entrance, and one of a crowd of several hundreds of persons. Each awaits his turn of admittance at a totally different little barred door, near which stand the ticket collector, the officer employed to count each individual who descends and duly registers the total in his ledger, and the bright-eyed little French woman who provides each visitor, for a small gratuity, with the necessary bougie (candie), without which no one is permitted to enter; and though somewhat roughly fixed at the end of a long wooden handle, it helps to cast a ray of light here and there, even in the silent walls. There is a rabel of voices all around; and it is some time before the crowd of visitors, with the guide at the head, holding aloft his flaring torch, are fairly launched into the Catacombs. After descending fifty or more stone steps, worn and slippery with decay, we pass through long narrow passages, apparently hewn out of the stone. We dare not linger, but must follow rapidly the long line of figures wending their way through these dark vaults. Here and there in the long corridors are passages barred off, and known as dangerous. At certain curves and corners, a sentinel with torch and gun is placed, to guide the visitors on their way. Wet Nurses (whose milk it enriches), and to stop Children's Diarrhœa.

DISEASES OF THE CHEST.
GRIMAULT & CO.'S SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITE OF LIME.

Persons suffering from CATARRH, CONSUMPTION, COLDS OR OBSTINATE COUGHS, and generally those afflicted with diseases of the chest, bronchia, or lungs, should use GRIMAULT & CO.'S SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITE OF LIME, which, prescribed for years past by the medical authorities of all countries, has invariably effected wonderful cures.

By the use of this Syrup the Cough is calmed, nocturnal sweats disappear, and the appetite rapidly improves—a fact soon demonstrated by an increase of weight and improved appearance.

GRIMAULT & CO.'S MATICO CAPSULES AND INJECTION.

Renowned Physicians prescribe GRIMAULT'S MATICO as the most active and at the same time the most inoffensive remedy, in the treatment of ACUTE AND CHRONIC DISEASES. These CAPSULES have not, like COPAIBA, the inconvenience of giving NAUSEAS. The INJECTION is used in recent, and the CAPSULES in the more chronic cases.

DUSART'S SYRUP OF LACTOPHOSPHATE OF LIME

This preparation enriches the blood, strengthens the bones and improves all the vital energies.

Phosphate of Lime is the substance most necessary to life; indispensable for the formation and nutriment of the bony system as for the transformation of food into muscular fibre. Without it the body wastes away, and it is to supply the lack of Phosphate of Lime that Dusart's Syrup is so useful. It is of inestimable benefit for Convalescents, Weak and Old People, and Rickety Children, who find in it the Calcareous Elements entering into the Constitution of the Bones. Well adapted to Ladies in the Family-way, Wet Nurses (whose milk it enriches), and to stop Children's Diarrhœa.

ASTHMA! ASTHMA!

GRIMAULT & CO.'s INDIAN CIGARETTES.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE
THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5, 1880, to J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Cholera, Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PURCHASER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are, sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.
Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodine" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.
CAUTION.—Beware of Piracy and Imitations.
Sole Manufacturer—J. T. DAVENPORT,
33 Great Russel-street, Bloomsbury, London.

DR. DE ROOS'
CONCENTRATED GUTTÆ VITÆ OR VEGETABLE LIFE DROPS.

THE alchemists of old spent years in endeavouring to find out the means of transmuting the baser metals into gold, but in vain. It was, however, reserved for a physician of the 19th Century to make a far more valuable discovery in occult science,—the result of deep research into the arcana of Nature's mysteries—which is here offered to the world; and the pleasing results of a quarter of a century during which time this wonderful medicine has been tried in every quarter of the globe, all corroborate the most sanguine of the inventor's hopes. Thousands of voluntary testimonials from grateful patients, testify to the fact that from this remarkable tonic alone, new life has been imparted to numbers of debilitated individuals; and it is not too much to say that hundreds of persons are at the present day in full enjoyment of their mental and bodily powers—in thorough good health—who previously were confirmed hypochondriacs, had been given up by the faculty as incurable and left to drag out the remainder of their existence a misery to themselves, and a continual anxiety to their friends.

This great life-reviving medicine gives vitality and strength to the most shattered constitutions. It not only strengthens the system but purifies the blood, and promotes a healthy circulation of the fluids, thus imparting strength and tone to the nerves, enlivening and invigorating both body and mind. It greatly improves the appetite and restores the digestive powers, whilst for dyspeptic persons it is unrivalled. Those who (from long residence in hot climates) suffer from langour and relaxation, as also all persons going to the East or West Indies, should provide themselves with this important article of health.

Youth and age equally participate in the miraculous effects of this wondrous medicine for whether the body be debilitated in early life, or sinking under the advance of years, a few doses will speedily afford assurance of returning health, by giving tone to the muscular and nervous systems, and through the organs of digestion, renovate the whole constitution. To the young it affords health, strength, and spirits, in place of lassitude and debility; while to the aged and infirm it assuredly furnishes great relief and comfort, by gently and safely invigorating the whole corporeal frame; and although it is not put forward as imparting immortality, it will certainly gild the autumn of declining years, and, in all cases, calmly and serenely protract the close of life. For females of all ages, as also for delicate children who cannot take cod-liver oil, the Guttæ Vitæ will be found a great boon—being far superior in its strengthening properties, and at the same time so pleasant to the palate that it can hardly be called a medicine. To married persons, especially, this preparation will prove invaluable; giving strength and vigour in place of lassitude and incapacity for exertion. Price, 11s. and 33s. per bottle. The large size contains sufficient for four weeks.

PRICE 105 GUINEAS.

Every one, probably, has heard something of the Steinway Inventions and Improvements which have both revolutionised the construction of the Pianoforte, and rendered the Steinway Instruments THE MOST PERFECT PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD.

It need therefore only be mentioned that public opinion throughout civilisation has amply recognised their unrivalled merits — the Steinway Instruments having BY FAR THE LARGEST ANNUAL SALE OF ANY PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD, as well as a far-reaching renown to which no other Pianofortes have ever attained.

THE STEINWAY GRAND PIANOFORTES have an annual sale greater than that of all the Grand Pianofortes annually manufactured by all the English Makers put together.

THE STEINWAY UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES (which in respect to their internal construction are really Grand Pianofortes in an Upright form, and have therefore almost nothing in common with the productions of the English makers), have also a greater annual sale than the Upright Pianofortes of any other maker in the world.

It will be seen from the brief analysis of the component parts given above—the FRAMEWORK consisting of a SOLID MASS OF STEEL, the ACTION cased in METAL, the HAMMERS rendered HUMID-PROOF and perfectly INDESTRUCTIBLE, the SOUND-BOARD endowed with PERMANENT ELASTICITY and ENDURANCE, &c.,—that this new model fully maintains that extraordinary standard of STRUCTURAL SOLIDITY and consequent DURABILITY in all climates which is an essential element of all the STEINWAY PIANOFORTES, and which has rendered them the only Pianofortes in the world that can be guaranteed to withstand the deteriorating influences of an Indian climate.

The external Case-work is constructed in SOLID MAHOGANY EBONISED, so as to extend to the Case-work that high standard of material Solidity and Durability which distinguishes the Internal construction of the Instrument, and which also is essential in Pianofortes intended for use in Indian climates.

LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL

THE PUREST. THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.
THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Sir G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.

"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

Dr. SINCLAIR COGHILL.

"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

Late Staff Surgeon Army, Professor of Hygiene Birkbeck Institution.

"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognized."

Dr. R. C. CROFT,
Author of "Handbook for the Nursery."

"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."

WITHOUT THESE MARKS NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE.

CAUTION.—It has come to the knowledge of the shippers of the "CARLTON" WHISKIES, that the empty Bottles have been dishonestly refilled with the poisonous trash very often sold in India under the name of Whiskey; this is therefore to caution consumers to CAREFULLY EXAMINE the CORKS and CAPSULES to see they have not been tampered with; also that the Corks, Capsules, and Labels are branded with their Trade Mark.
